

FINANCIAL AID FOR STUDY ABROAD

The ability to use financial aid for a program depends on the type of aid, and the type of study abroad program, you are undertaking. Please use the following chart to determine both what type of aid is “portable” for semester programs abroad, and what type of paperwork you might need to submit.

Type of Financial Aid	Tuition Paid to The New School (Exchange Programs)	Tuition Paid to Another Program (Outside or Affiliated Program)*
Lang Scholarship, Dean’s Scholarship, or Other University or Restricted Scholarship	Yes	No
Federal Pell Grant	Yes	Yes
Federal Direct Student Loans	Yes	Yes
Federal PLUS Parent Loans	Yes	Yes
Federal Perkins Loan	Yes	No
Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant	Yes	No
Federal ACG or SMART Grant	Yes	Yes
Federal Work Study	No	No
NY State TAP Award	Yes	No (may be eligible, though only if paying tuition to a NY State school)
Private Education Loans	Yes	Yes
External Scholarships	Yes	Contact the scholarship organization directly to discuss

*For outside or affiliated programs, students must also complete either a consortium or contractual agreement (depending on the particular program). Either form is available from a study abroad advisor upon request to langstudyabroad@newschool.edu, or in person at 64 West 11th Street. The first section of the agreement is completed by the student, the second section completed by an academic advisor, and the third section is completed by your host program (confirming its costs). Once completed, the agreement form is submitted by fax or email to Student Financial Services at The New School for processing.

SUMMER ABROAD

For summer abroad programs, students must be enrolled in a program worth at least 6 credits for consideration of any financial aid. In addition, students must have a federal FAFSA application on file for both the preceding and the following academic years for the summer requested. For consideration, download and complete the Summer Financial Aid Application by mid-April:

For questions about financial aid, we always recommend you consult with a Student Financial Services counselor in person at 72 Fifth Avenue, Lower Level, or via email at sfs@newschool.edu
